

Burst revamps publisher interface

Author: Tim Dickinson<tim@adbalance.com>

Burst Media have finally upgraded their publisher interface after listening to their publishers in a number of past surveys. The interface was one of the main complaints about Burst, one of the leading top tier ad networks, but they have finished implementing their new look upgrade which gives publishers access to a lot more stats and information on the first page, with further information still available under the various tabs and links. It is still not the prettiest interface available in comparison to all the major publishers Casale Media functions a publisher needs from on the main page and is a vast improvement over their previous version.
